

Suggestions for Using Today and for the Future...Results Matter for Part C

Today and for the Future...Results Matter is a video that provides an overview of the five components of the Results Matter system and includes interviews with providers and families. The video is available as a DVD and includes options for English, Spanish, and captioning. Copies of the DVD and full transcripts are available through Early Childhood Connections or CDE.

The video might be used as a useful tool in a number of ways for Part C:

- Orienting new employees and contracted providers
- Training on child and family outcomes for providers on the Results Matter system
- Sharing information with:
 - board or ICC members
 - families entering the Part C system
 - community partners, such as Early Head Start
 - local Early Childhood Councils
- Showing it as a looped presentation at health or community service fairs
- Presentations for local funders
- Other community presentations

The video addresses the five components in general terms. Those planning presentations or workshops will need to incorporate more detailed information for individuals who want more detailed about how these five components play out. For example, while the video discusses child outcomes and authentic assessment in a general way, a group of providers will also need to know about the assessment used by their agency, how the OSEP reporting feature works, and how to access additional information and training. It is recommended that supporting materials and discussions be developed to offer more detailed information.
